

Josh Tabish

Josh Tabish is the Corporate Communications Manager at the Canadian Internet Registration Authority (CIRA) in Ottawa. He is an innovator in civic engagement and an expert in digital policy.

Josh began his career as the Campaigns Director for OpenMedia, where he led successful campaigns to ban discriminatory zero-rating practices, and have the internet declared a basic service in Canada.

Prior to joining CIRA, Josh served as the Media Democracy Fund/Ford Foundation Tech Exchange Fellow with the U.S.-based non-profit Fight for the Future.
